WHAT DO YOU THINK

Of a Merchant who Does Not Get any Business Because He Refuses to Advertise. Very Foolish!! Well Rather.

ANOTHER GONE WRONG

Arnold Becker Who is Well Known.

IS NOW A FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE.

On Account of Passing Forged Checks in San Francisco and Oakland.

A Check Raiser.

Arnold Becker, a young insurance solicitor of San Francisco, is involved in serious trouble, and the list of those who complain of him include some of Oakland's leading business men. Although engaged in business in San Francisco, he has been in Oakland a great deal of late; in fact, he has lived here with more or less regularity.

On Monday afternoon he went to A. H. Breed, a real estate dealer, and presented a check for $18 on the Garden City National Bank of San Jose signed by himself. Just what followed is best described by Breed, who says: "It was late and I could not conveniently cash Becker's check, so I endorsed it. On my suggestion, he got his money in due season from the First National Bank. Yesterday the check came back to me with the information that Becker had no funds in the bank and that I would have to make it good. I thought little of this, until I found that others had been caught in like manner. Now I am looking for Becker."

The Bowman Drug Company accepted a check from Becker drawn on the same day and against the same bank for $10. This check has also been dishonered and the young insurance man will be called upon for an explanation. W. V. Witcher was prevailed upon by a friend to honor one of Becker's checks for $20; Du Ray Smith also holds unsatisfied paper signed by Becker. The latter has written a letter announcing his intention to prosecute at once unless reparation is made.

What induced young Becker to resort to these means of raising money is not clear. He at one time had an account in the bank against which Monday's checks were drawn but has never had the authority to overdraw. A previous difficulty is said to have been settled by his father-in-law, who is a member of the firm of Herman & Brothers, civil engineers, at 45 North First street, San Jose, and a man of resources.

Simultaneous with the developments in this case which threaten to cause the young man's arrest, comes the story of a transaction in San Francisco equally unsatisfactory to the party handling Becker's check. In this N. H. Harris has been held responsible by the firm of Baldwin & Hammond for a $50 check negotiated by Becker with Harris' guarantee.

Becker claimed in this city that he was the superintendent of agents for the Pacific States Life Insurance Company, besides being otherwise interested in the insurance business. He is married and has one child.

It is said that he has written a letter from San Francisco to the Oaklanders who have lost money by his operations in which he asks time, and mentions his ability to make the amounts good, but it is doubtful whether the Oakland merchants will wait.

The Proper Credit.

In giving an account of the opening of the campaign in Berkeley, by the McKinley League a mention of the singing by the Quartette Club was unintentionally omitted.

The quartette is composed of the following gentlemen: W. J. Oakes, A. G. Cliff, L. S. Mervin and R. E. Gilson.

It is nothing more than right to say that the singing of these gentlemen during the evening was fully appreciated by the audience and was fully as attractive as the rest of the exercises.

Are you going to the Foresters picnic on Sunday next? If not, why not? You will have an immense time.

Contractors should keep a close watch on the columns of the GAZETTE as Resolutions calling for proposals to do street work are appearing every day.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

May Ballard Celebrates Eighth Anniversary.

Birthday Party.

A very pleasant birthday party was given to Miss Mary Ballard, at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Ballard, on Sixth street on Wednesday afternoon last, it being her eighth birthday.

After enjoying games, singing and dancing for several hours refreshments were served. Among those present were the Misses May Stricker, Emma and Ethel Peterson, Ella Doud, Lena Murphy, Jessie Cook, Edna Hampton, Bunny Striker, Helen Saake, Mabel Herzog, Dudley Sisterna, Hazel McNamara, Maud Giffins, Celia Higgins, Annie and Maggie Newwrth, Rosie Burbanks, Masters Posen Johnson, Wallace Striker, Willie Saake, Albert and Tommy Doud, Johnnie Giffins, Barnum McDonald and Nita Johnson and May Ballard.

She May Recover.

Amanda Calloway, the colored woman who was shot three times Wednesday by Mary Wagner, is lying at the Receiving Hospital hovering between life and death, with some chance of ultimately recovering from the effects of her wounds, and yet she may die before another day rolls around.

Her fate depends entirely upon the complications which may result from the internal injuries. The bullet in the arm has been removed, but the one in the thigh and the one in the chest are still in her body. To probe for the latter would no doubt produce death, so it will be allowed to remain in the lung.

Knocked Off a Letter

A good joke is told on a certain dairyman in Oakland. He is of strong Celtic origin and has a brogue as rich as one ever hears on the water front. He is proprietor of a dairy and receives milk from the city of Napa. On the panels of his wagon is painted in large letters "Napa Dairy." One morning recently, while his wagon was standing at Sixteenth street depot, some mischievous boy painted out the letter N, leaving the sign A. P. A. Dairy. On his way up town, someone called his attention to the alteration. Well! the air was blue for four blocks around during the next half hour.—Enquirer.

The Detection Of Food Adulteration.

Is not only a service to the community at large, but to reputable dealers in food products. The co-operation of such business men with the authorities can always be confidently expected. The reported results of analyses show how imperatve is the need that good citizens combine to drive out this kind of fraud.

A substance sold as powdered cinnamon was found to be pulverized cigar boxes flavored with an essential oil. Out of two hundred samples of chocolate, only twenty were found unadulterated. The rest were adulterated with terra alba, brown ochre starch, glucose, barytes and the like. Samples of pepper had in them a little pepper extract added to pulverized almonds, fruit pits and twigs.

The moral difference between the man who stands behind his counter and knowingly sells these and other dishonest concoctions and the man who stands behind prison bars because he has been been caught in a confidence game is not appreciable. The former has this advantage; he has not been detected.

The attention of our readers is called to the new advertisement in another column of the West End Grocery which has just been opened by Charles Hadlen, who for the past fifteen years has been in the employ of D. H. Bruns & Co. Mr. Hadlen understands the business thoroughly and his long experience with the people of Berkeley enables him to supply them with just what they want, and to this end he has stocked his store with a full line of groceries and other articles that are wanted by all classes which he will sell at San Francisco prices. His place of business is on the corner of Ninth street and University Avenue, where he will be pleased to meet all of his old friends and as many new ones as can find it convenient to call.

ALWAYS IN TROUBLE.

Charles Heath a Negro Bootblack

ATTEMPTS TO CARVE YOUNG McENTEE

With a Razor But Wounds Himself and He is Now in Jail.

Heath and His Razor.

Charles Heath, a negro bootblack, was arrested last night and charged with assault with a deadly weapon, having attempted to carve the throat of Walker McEntee with a razor. In the effort to cut McEntee's jugular vein, the razor slipped and almost entirely severed the thumb of Heath's own right hand.

The quarrel between Heath and McEntee was the result of an old feud, bad blood having existed between the two for some time. McEntee was passing the stand of the bootblack when Heath struck him in the face. A clinch followed, and Heath was getting the worst of the fray when he pulled a razor from his inside pocket and made a slash at the throat of McEntee. His aim missed and the blow was spent on McEntee's coat, which was cut entirely across from left shoulder to right hip. So tight a grasp did Heath have on his opponent's neck that blood flowed freely from the finger-nail marks left.

This man Heath has been in difficulty several times and is not looked upon by a great many as a desirable person to have in the community. At the last meeting of the Board of Trustees he was granted permission to use a portion of the sidewalk for a bootblack stand. As a backing for his petition he had signers that it would trouble the best man in town to get if he was running for office. In fact President Richards stated that he had had some prejudice but at present it had died out and he thought it was all right to grant the petition.

There are other stories in relation to Heath, which, if true does not place him in a good light.

It is quite probable, that when the trial comes off much may come out that has not been made public hereto fore.

Christian Endeavor

The Christian Endeavor Society, of Lorin, held a business meeting last evening which was very largely attended. After the routine business had been concluded, an election of officers took place which resulted as follows: President, A. Wright; Vice-President, Miss Irwin; Recording Secretary, Miss Shores; Treasurer, H. Irwin.

The newly elected officers were installed and were conducted to their places.

Light refreshments were then served during which time appropriate remarks were made by the Rev. Hood and Messrs. Crew, Wilson Wright and Rodgers.

A great deal of enthusiasm was manifested at the meeting and the coming year promises to be a most prosperous one for the Society.

J. D. Burke has gone to Vacaville.

HE DIDN'T BOLT

No Matter How Much He Desired the Beans.

Was a Martyr

EDITOR GAZETTE:—In your editoral column of Wednesday evening, you say:

"If Republicans will only be true to themselves and to the party, the silver question will eventually take care of itself."

And again you remark:

"Let us get the country into a prosperous condition under a Protective Tariff and then we can quickly settle the silver question."

Now, Mr. Editor, your arguments are sound as far as they go, but is there no fear that another party may try to force something else on the American public, as a circulating medium.

But let me explain. Yesterday afternoon a gentleman came down to the station and stated to the assembled trunk smashers that he had a load of camping articles, trunks, etc., to move, and he wanted to know what expressman would do it the cheapest and take their pay in BEANS.

Suffering Moses! Mr. Editor, we were all paralyzed. The atmosphere which had been warm and pleasant fell 40 degrees below Fonzo. Jacobson's driver fell in a faint and he wildly exclaimed that his boss would take cord wood, hay, pumpkins or anything that a horse could eat, but he drew the line at beans, and I, Mr. Editor didn't know what to say. I knew that Senator Teller had made a kick because the Republican party had not adopted a silver plank in its platform. Suppose the news was flashed across the length and breadth of this land that the Hon. John Boyd had left the Republican party because they would not insert a bean plank of 16 to 1.

No, Mr. Editor, I refused, and beans are not a legal tender in Berkeley, and if the Republican State Central Committee think that I have done the party a noble service, by nipping this bean currency in its incipiency, they might just hint to McKinley after election that the present Postmaster is getting old, and that it is necessary to infuse some young blood into the office and that the proper person would be.

WILL SELL THE POLES

County Assessor Dalton is Very Angry.

AND SAYS THAT HE WILL NOT FOOL WITH

The Postal Telegraph Companies Any Longer but Will Seize and Sell Their Poles for Taxes.

Will Sell The Poles.

County Assessor Dalton will make the Pacific Postal Telegraph Company pay its taxes like an ordinary individual or he is going to sieze and sell its telegraph lines in this county. The County Assessor served personal notice upon the company yesterday afternoon to this effect and will give it until Saturday at 2 o'clock in which to pay the taxes or be sold out.

The Postal lines in this country are assessed as the personal property of the company, and under the law the collection of personal property taxes is in the hands of the County Assessor. This company is assessed for $22,375 upon 60 3-4 miles of line in Alameda county, at the rate of $372 a mile. This makes the total tax due the county $322. Being upon personal property the tax becomes due and delinquent the moment it is levied, and it is collectible at any time by the Assessor before the third Monday in July. Up to this time the Assesor possesses full power to sieze and sell the property assessed if the tax is not paid, but after that date, if he fails to collect the tax, he cannot forcibly take possession of the property that he desires to satisfy the claim of the county.

All of the telephone and telegraph companies in this county are assessed in this way, and they have all paid their taxes except this one company. The assessments of both the Western Union Telegraph Company and the Sunset Telephone Company are higher than those of the Postal Company, and they have paid in full. Last year the Postal Telegraph Company asked Assessor Dalton to postpone the collection of the tax until after the County Board of Equalization could act upon its application for a reduction in the assessment. It agreed to abide by the decision of the County Equalizers. The County Equalizers did not reduce the assessment, and when it came to the fulfillment of the agreement with the Assessor, the Postal Company refused to pay the tax at all, and a suit is now pending, brought by the county.

Are Good Rustlers.

Eight and ten new subscribers every day is what comes to the GAZETTE through the efforts of the telephone and telegraph girls and their friends, the most of them are hoarding up their coupons and are only being credited with the votes that they are entitled to with their subscriptions. The GAZETTE is thus extending its subscriptions in every direction extends from San Pablo to Temescal and Golden Gate and good words are being received for it by all the new subscribers who find in it a first-class newspaper that does contain the news. It is a true saying that if you dont take the GAZETTE, you dont get the news and all appreciate this fact. No paper ever published in Berkeley ever had such a large subscription list as this journal it printing ten papers where its contemporary prints one.

Its enterprise is acknowledged and appreciated by all. It never makes a promise that it does not keep, and above all it has the news up to date both local, miscellaneous and telegraphic.

Next month Mrs. Wilkes the winner of the GAZETTE prize for the most popular school teacher will take her outing at Samuel Soda Springs and she will inform the GAZETTE readers of what a delightful resort she is visiting and what a splendid time they are having.

DIVORCED FOR KEEPS.

Dr. William Croome A Well-Known Dentist

WHOSE WIFE GOT A DIVORCE FROM HIM YESTERDAY.

Went to Bed Last Night and Turned On the Gas and is Now Dead.

He Killed Himself.

Dr. William Croome, a dentist who lived at 3020 California street, committed suicide either some time during last night or early this morning.

At all events the body was found lying in bed at half past seven this morning by O. G. Hallett, who lived in the flat above the residence of Dr. Croome, and numbered 3020 1-2 California street.

The much used, or rather abused, method of causing death—asphyxiation by gas—was employed in this case.

Dr. Croome was well known in this city as a brother-in-law of Dr. Decker, an ex-member of the Board of School Directors of this city.

He was possessed of considerable property and enjoyed a lucrative practice in his profession.

His domestic relations, however, had been unpleasant, and to this cause alone can the reason for his suicide be attributed.

A short time ago Mrs. Croome brought suit for divorce against her husband, alleging excessive cruelty. Yesterday Judge Slack awarded the woman a decree of divorce, ordering Croome to pay alimony in the sum of $50 per month for her support.

The judicial separation has now been made infinitely more complete by the actions of the man himself.

M'Kinley's Campaign.

Cincinnati, June 26.—The "Times-Star" special from Canton says that Governor McKinley and Mr. Hanna deny that any selections have been made for the national executive committee except that Senator Quay has been offered the chairmanship.

H. H. Kohlsaat, of Chicago will probably be a member of the advisory committee, also Cornelius N. Bliss, of New York.

Thomas McDougal, of Cincinnati, had a long talk with Governor McKinley last night. It is said he has been urged to accept a place on the advisory committee.

To-day Charles Emory Smith, of Philadelphia, and Chris Magee, of Pittsburg, are here, and the matter of the advisory committee was discussed with them. McDougal said, "There is but one issue—the tariff."

The City Christian Endeavor Union has taken a hand in the affairs of the Oakland Fire Department and have joined hands in a battle against Chief Fair and his new method of having the men turn out for regular Sunday drill.

At the last meeting some strong speeches were made, and the following resolutions were adopted by a unanimous vote:

"Whereas, It has been the custom of the City Fire Department to conduct their fire drills on the Sabbath day; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we, the Christian Endeavor of the city of Oakland, most respectfully request the proper officials that some other day than the Christian Sabbath be selected to conduct these drills, believing that it will work no hardship upon the department, but on the other hand it will give the firemen the privilege of holding that day as a day of rest so far as it is possible, and also assist Oakland in establishing a Christian Sabbath."

A GREAT HONOR

COnfered Upon a Graduate Of The State University

Received a High Honor.

Word was received at the University yesterday that George M. Stratton had just received his doctor's degree at the University of Leipsic, Germany, with the highest honor to be conferred, that of "Summa Cum Laude." This degree of exceptional distinction has not been bestowed on any student from Leipsic for some years, notwithstanding the fact that many brilliant scholars have in the meantime graduated from the university.

Dr. Stratton's career has been one of many scholarly successes. He graduated from the University of California with honors in 1888. Two years later he received his degree of Master of Arts from Yale. For four years he was an instructor of psychology in the University of California. The Board of Regents granted him a two years' leave of absence, during which time he has been studying in Leipzic. While at Leipzic he studied under Professor Wundt. Dr. Stratton's thesis on advanced work done in the Wundt laboratory received much attention from German scholars when it came out. He will return to California in time to begin his instruction in psychology when the university opens in August.

The next meeting of the Republican League will be held at Odd Fellows Hall on Tuesday evening next.

On next Thursday evening Berkeley Lodge I. O. O. F., will install their new officers for the ensuing six months.

really clever performance is being given by Milton Nobles and his company at the Oakland this week. The play is a standard one and has lost none of its old time popularity. The same bill the balance of this week.

From present indications a large number of our people will celebrate the Fourth of July at Vallejo. There seems to be a bond of friendship between Berkeley and Vallejo that is very strong, for which we are very much pleased.

Milton Nobles and company are playing "The Phoenix" to large houses at the Oakland this week. The play is one of intense interest and presents many unfamiliar phases of life in a great city. The same bill the balance of the week.

On the evening of July 1, at Sisterna Hall, the Epworth League will give an entertainment for the benefit of the Methodist Church. The leading feature of the evening will be the rendering of a dialogue entitled, "A Country Aunt's Visit to the City."

The Crescent Athletic Club will give a dramatic entertainment in Shattuck Hall on Tuesday evening, June 30. It will be a one-act comedy, entitled "The Two Advertisements." The leading roles will be assumed by Miss Cora Fisk, Mrs. S. P. Metcalf, George Wilcox, Dr. Anthony, Mrs. Anthony and W. Gompertz. The performance will be followed by a dance.

We desire to acknowledge the receipt of a copy of the official directory of the members of the Fifty-Fourth Congress, which was sent to us with the compliments of Congressman H. G. Hilborn. It is a very valuable book for which he has our thanks.

The Herald of yesterday does not seem to take much stock in the denial of the strike on our evening contemporary on Saturday last, and much less in the denial of the help who put their names at the bottom of the denial and immediately afterward informed outsiders that they had failed to get their pay for many moons.

The jurors in the Root case, regarding which sensational reports have been published, made public a statement to the effect that they have no reason to think or believe that their food was either impure or poisonous, but, on the contrary, it was pure and wholesome and well prepared. Total expenses of County Surveyor, $317.24. Total expenses of County Board of Education, $1,227.05. Total Expenses of County Auditor, $994.40. Total expenses of County Recorder, $491.89. Total expenses Superintendent of Schools, $433.89. Total expenses of County Recorder, $2,015.86. Total expenses of Coroner, $4,050.03.

Total expense of supplies to indigents, $18,282.60, total expense of the Board of Supervisors, $25,805.93; total expense of Superior Courts, $15,780.73; total expense for care of court house and hall of records grounds, $2,325.76; total expense for care, maintainance and furnishing of Court house, $9,734.20; total expense for burial of indigents, $2,140.50; total expense for care, maintainance of Hall of Records, $6,296.94; total expense of County Jail, $4,887.46.

Total expense of Receiving Hospital $4,297.70. Total expense Justice Courts in Alameda Township, $1,398.50; Berkeley Township, $1,798.10. Total expense of County Infirmary, $46,583.90.

The above figures show the total amount of money paid out in every department for supplies of all kinds and for salaries, and it will be seen that by far the largest outlay is for the maintainance of the poor in our midst, and in the County Infirmary, and for the burial of the indigent dead.

We have seen the reports from the various counties as published in their home papers, but we cannot call to mind one county that is as honestly and economically managed as is Alameda county, under its present efficient Board of Supervisors, which is composed of the following named gentlemen: Supervisors Talcon, Church, Bailey, Pelouze and Johnson.

Supervisor Johnson represents the eastern end of Berkeley and Supervisor Pelouze the western end of Berkeley, and the report shows that they have paid the strictest attention to the wants of Berkeley in every particular, and our citizens can well say to them, well done thou good and faithful servants.

The GAZETTE after reading and examining the report very carefully can find nothing but commendation for our district supervisors and for the Board of Supervisors as a whole.

W. H. Bone is considering the advisability of running for supervisor from the East Berkeley Supervisoral district.

The GAZETTE is being copied more extensively among the papers of the State than almost any other paper, which shows that it is appreciated by the editors of the State.

And now the sports say that the fight between Corbett and Sharkey the other night was a hipodrome, gotten up especially for advertising purposes so as to enable Corbett and Sharkey to go on the road with a theatrical company and coax dollars from a guileless public.

Although it is about eight days before the Fourth of July, the reports are already coming in that this boy and that boy has been injured by the explosion of a bomb of powder. The list will grow from now on and the casualities on the Fourth will be very large.

We desire to acknowledge the receipt of the annual statement of the receipts and disbursements in all the departments of Alameda County for the year 1895 which was sent to us with the compliments of our very efficient supervisor Joseph E. Johnson.

The reports from Stockton in reference to the health of Governor Budd, are not at all reassuring to his friends. His physician states that his old enemy rheumatism has attacked him in the right arm and right side, and that he is a very sick man, much more so than he was a year ago. The Governor is utterly helpless, being unable to move, and he suffers the most excruciating pain. It is sincerly hoped that Governor Budd will speedily recover and that the fears of his physician are groundless as his death at this time would be a public calamity.

A Proud, Sensitive Hen.

He was being interviewed on the poultry business, when he said: "I don't want to boast, but I do think we have got the knowingest hens in the world in our pond of the town. I have a flock of 200, all black. It is a theory of mine that black hens lay better than those of any other color. One day I found a hen in my flock with a few white feathers in her tail. I called the hired man and told him to catch and kill her. 'You can't rely on the laying capabilities of a hen with white feathers,' I said. The hen gave me a sorrowful look, but did not say a word.

"Next morning the hired man told me that he could not find her. A month or two later I opened a pile of potatoes I had stored in the cellar and found a big hollow space in the center of them. There was a bunch of black feathers in the place, with three white ones standing up in a defiant sort of way. Behind the feathers were 66 eggs. I recognized at once that it was the work of the missing hen. The proud, sensitive creature had stowed herself away and worn herself out laying eggs to prove that the theory was a mistaken one."—Wabash Times.

Journalism.

William Black, the novelist, was once a leader writer for the London News. When asked the other day what he thought of journalism as a literary training, he answered: "I don't know that it was of any particular value in my case, but journalism is most useful in the making of a novelist in that it gives him experience of a large sphere of life, but to receive the fullest unionm of such experience a man ought to be a reporter. There is now quite a remarkable group of novelists who have been journalists. But journalism itself has undergone a remarkable change since I worked at it. In the last 20 years the newspaper has become a magazine compared with what it was. The daily newspaper is now ready to take anything, on any subject—literature, science, art—from anybody, providing only it is interesting."

Planets With Three Suns.

The people inhabiting the planets in the solar system of Gamma have no need of electricity, gas, oil or other kinds of artificial light. In those favored worlds they have continuous daylight, and probably have no idea of a land like ours which is alternately bathed in sunlight and plunged into darkness. The Gammaneim planets are so situated that as soon as one of their three suns begins to decline another appears in sight. Each of these three suns is of a different color—red, yellow and blue.—St. Louis Republic.

Beloved, let us love so well, our work shall still be better for our love, and still our love be sweeter for our work, and each commended for the sake of each by all true lovers and true workers born.—Mrs. Browning.

Ear Mending.

Disagreeably projecting ears have been successfully manipulated and improved by surgical skill. A crescent shaped piece of cartilage is taken from the back of the ear, the cut sewed and a bandage applied until the wound is healed, when a properly formed ear is the result.

ROSE AYLMER'S GRAVE.

An English grave 'neath Indian skies,
Marked by a sullen stone,
And this is where Rose Aylmer lies,
Far, friendless, and alone.
Rose Aylmer was a poet's love,
Sweet, beautiful and young;
Her elegy, in melody,
The poet lover sung.

About her grave no flowers grow,
No pleasant boughs are stirred,
No gentle sun, no quiet snow,
No English bee or bird.
The sons of splendor search the stone,
In summer, storm and rave
The winds that herald the cyclone,
The rains that lash the grave.

Rose Aylmer's sister flowers should spring
In whitest bloom above;
The roses Landor could not bring,
Far distant from his love.
And now a snake lives near her bed,
The crow's perch on the rail,
A kite sweeps past and overhead,
The unclean vultures sail.

"Ah, what avails the sceptered race,
Ah, what the form divine!
What every virtue, every grace!
Rose Aylmer, all were thine.
Rose Aylmer, whom these wakeful eyes
May weep, but never see,
A night of memories and of sighs
I consecrate to thee."

Ah, why regret the gloomy hearse,
The land of banishment?
This is her grave, but Landor's verse
Rose Aylmer's monument.
Rose Aylmer, on thy namestone lies
Love's rose immortally,
The Rose of memories and of sighs,
Once consecrate to thee.

—Temple Bar.

THE RAVEN.

The Count Stibor was as brave as he was highborn, and riches had poured in upon him until he had become one of the wealthiest nobles in the empire. It chanced that one day he hunted with a great retinue among the mountain fastnesses, and glorious was the sport of that gallant hunt. The light footed chamois, the antlered deer, the fierce wolf, and the grizzly bear were alike laid low. When the sun was about to set, he formed his temporary encampment on the pleasant bank of the Wang, just where, on the opposite side of the channel, a lone and precipitous rock turned aside the glancing waters.

The heart of Stibor was merry, for the sport had gone well throughout the day, and when his rude tents were raised, the savory steam of the venison and the sparkle of the wine cup brightened his humor, and he listened, with a smile upon his lip, to the light sallies of the joyous company.

As they talked idly of the day's hunting, however, one wished that the deer had taken another direction; a second that he had not missed a certain shot; a third that he had not lost his couteau de chase in the underwood. In short, there was not an individual among them who had not some regret blended with his triumph, like a drop of gall in a cup of honey.

"Hear me," said the magnificent noble, during a transient pause in the conversation. "I seem to be the only hunter of the day to whom the sport has been without a blemish. It is true that all your misfortunes are light enough, but I will have no shadow cast upon my own joy, and therefore to compensate you for these alleged mishaps, each of you is free to form a wish, and if it be within my power to grant it, I pledge my word that it shall be fulfilled."

A murmur of admiration ran through the astonished circle, and the work of ambition soon began. Gold was the first thing asked for, for avarice is ever the most greedy of all passions, and then revenge upon an enemy, for human nature will often sacrifice personal gain to vengeance, and then power, authority, rule over their fellow men, the darling occupation and privilege of poor, weak, self misjudging mortals. In short, there was no boon within the reach of reason which had not been asked and promised, when the eye of Stibor fell upon his jester, who was standing apart playing with the tassels of his vest and apparently quite uninterested in a subject which had made all around him eager and excited.

"And thou, knave," said the noble, "hast thou nothing to ask? Thou must bestir thyself, or thy master will have little left to give, if the game go on thus."

"Fear not, fear not," replied the fool. "The claimants have been courteous, for they have not touched upon that portion of thy possessions which I covet. They have demanded gold, blood, domain, the power to enjoy themselves, and to render others wretched—they are welcome to all they want. I only ask for stones."

A loud laugh ran through the circle. "Stones, Betzko!" echoed the astonished Stibor. "Thou shalt have them to thy heart's content, where and in what shape thou wilt."

"I take thee at thy word, Count Stibor. I will have them yonder on the crest of the bold rock that stands out like a braggart daring the foot of man, and in the shape of a good castle in which I may hold my own, should need be," was the unlooked for reply.

"Thou hast lost thy chance, Betzko," cried a voice amid the universal merriment that ensued. "Not even Stibor can accomplish thy desire."

"Who dares to say that Stibor cannot grant it, if such be his will?" demanded the chieftain in a voice of thunder as he rose proudly from the earth where he had been seated on a couch of skins. "The castle of Betzko shall be built!"

And it was built, and within a year a festival was held there, near the noble became enamored of his own creation, for it was beautiful in its strength, and the fair dames admired its courtly halls as much as the warriors prized its solid walls and its commanding towers. And thus Count Stibor bought off the rock fortress from his jester with gold, and made it the chief place of his abode, and he feasted there with his guests and made merry with music and dances until it seemed as though life was to be for him one long festival. Men often walk over the spot which afterward opens to bury them.

Little by little the habit of self indulgence grew upon the luxurious noble Yet still he loved the chase beyond all else on earth, and his dogs were of the fleetest and finest breed.

He was one day at table, surrounded by the richest viands and the rarest wines, when one of his favorite hounds entered the hall howling with pain and dragging after him his wounded foot, which dropped blood as he moved along. Terror seized upon the hearts of the vassals even before the rage of their lord burst forth, and when it came terrible was the storm, as he vowed vengeance against the wretch who had dared thus to mutilate an animal that he valued.

An aged slave flung himself at his feet. "Mercy, my lord, mercy!" he exclaimed piteously. "I have served you faithfully for years. My beard is gray with time, and my life has been one of hardship. Have mercy on me, for he flew upon me and would have torn me had I not defended myself against his fury. I might have destroyed him, but I sought only to preserve myself. Have mercy upon my weakness!"

The angry chieftain, however, heeded not the anguish of his gray hairs, and, pointing to a low balcony which extended across the window of the apartment and hung over the precipice he commanded that the wretched old man should be flung from thence into the river which flowed beneath as an example to those caitiffs who valued their own worthless lives above those of his noble hounds.

As the miserable tools of an imperious will were dragging the unhappy victim to his fate he raised his voice and cursed the tyrant whom they served, and having done so, he summoned him to appear at the tribunal, which none can escape, to answer for this his last crime, on its first anniversary. But the powerful chief heeded not his words.

"Away with him!" he said sternly as he lifted his goblet to his lips; and there was a struggle, a shriek of agony and then a splash upon the river wave, and all was silent.

A year went by in festival and pride, and the day on which that monstrous crime had been committed returned unheeded. There was a feast in the castle, and Stibor, who month after month gave himself up yet more to self indulgence, gradually became heavy with wine, and his attendants carried him to a couch beside the same window whence the unfortunate slave had been hurled 12 months before.

The guests drank on for a time, and made merry at the insensibility and helplessness of their powerful host, and then they departed, each to his business or pleasure, and left him there alone.

The casement had been flung back to admit the air freely into the heated apartment, and the last reveler had scarcely departed, when a raven—the somber messenger of Nemesis—flew thrice round the battlements of the castle, and then alighted on the balcony. Several of the guests amused their idleness by watching the evolutions of the ill-omened bird, but once having lost sight of it they turned away and thought of it no more.

Meanwhile a work of agony and death had been delegated to that dark winged messenger. It rested but an instant from its flight ere once more it hovered over the couch of the sleeping Stibor, and then, darting down, its sharp beak penetrated at one thrust from his eye into his brain!

The agony awoke him, but he awoke only to madness from its extent. He reeled to and fro, venting imprecations to which none was by to listen, and writhed until his tortured body was one convulsion. At length, by a mighty effort, striving to accomplish he knew not what, he hurled himself over the balcony, at the selfsame spot whence the slave had been flung by his own command, and as he fell the clear waters of the Wang for a time resisted the impure burden, and threw him back shrieking and howling from their depths.

But he sank at last, and when his parasites sought him on the morrow they found only the couch on which he had lain and a few drops of blood to hint that he had died a death of violence and vengeance.

They searched for him carefully on all sides, and then, when they were quite assured that he had passed away never to return, whispers grew of the gray headed slave and the mysterious raven—until by degrees the fate of the famous Stibor was fashioned into form, and grew into a legend throughout the country, scaring the village maiden in her twilight walk and the lone shepherd in his watch upon the hills.—Exchange.

India Rubber Glass.

Scarcely a month passes without our being informed of some new application of glass in art or commerce, but there is one form of glass which is unknown to most people—namely, soft, glass or glass paste. Yet it is hundreds of years old.

The old Roman glass makers carried to the grave their secret method of preparing a glass paste which they modeled cold, just as we model clay. This malleable glass, upon which you could get the impression of your finger exactly as with dough, gave off a most pleasant perfume.

Another variety made by the Romans had qualities similar to rubber. If it were thrown down forcibly it rebounded; if struck with a hammer it yielded and immediately resumed its original shape. It is related that the Emperor Tiberius ordered a workman's head to be cut off so that he should not reveal the secret, the reason given for this act being that if the method of preparation became known people would think no more of gold than of dirt.

The secret of the manufacture of glass paste died with the Roman artisans and has never been discovered. Now we hear that an eminent sculptor, who has a well equipped chemical laboratory, has succeeded in producting a glass paste similar to that described in ancient writings. You can drive nails into it as you can into lead.—Pearson's Weekly.

Flower farming undertaken by women is by no means unlucrative. I have one friend who is doing well with a violet farm and apple orchard. Another lady, no longer young, but with an indomitable pluck, compelled by circumstances to make her own living, started a lily farm last summer in a remote country village in Sussex. I am glad to say she is succeeding wonderfully, and besides her lilies disposes of eggs, cream, mushrooms and garden produce, without difficulty. And my friend was a London woman who had had no previous experience in country ways and duties.—London Gentlewoman.
